

Diversity

With the funding of the "Keys for Leadership in Nursing" grant under the direction of Associate Dean Cathy Read and with new funding also from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation for increased diversity in our Direct Masters Entry program, we have been fortunate indeed to have many additional resources available to support diversity initiatives.

Our Diversity Advisory Board is in place and has been providing us with support in terms of recruitment and retention of students from underrepresented ethnic and r leadership strategies.

Another supporter of our diversity issues has been our alumna, Jennie Chin Hanson, who spoke with student leaders at the National Student Nurse Association convention in Tennessee this year, who spoke with students, faculty and alumni at BC this year about leadership opportunities to promote health care change and who has agreed to join our diversity advisory board.
